The Educator Hall of Fame was established in 2007 by former UAHS Principal and former Upper Arlington City Council President and Mayor Kip Greenhill to honor “the best of the best” educators in the district. Retired educators may be nominated for this recognition by their peers, former students, parents, and others and are selected by a group representing educators and alumni.

Outstanding and Distinguished Alumni Awards have been presented annually since 1993 and have honored many accomplished graduates. Alumni may be nominated by the alumni community and others and are selected by the Upper Arlington Alumni Association Council.
